RIMMER IS TO ADDRESS ROTARIANS

Evangelist With Magnetic Personality, Wins Audience

TO GO TO CHINA

Under Engagement With International Y.M.C.A. for European Tour

Harry Rimmer who is conducting a series of meetings for young people of Glendale, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., has a singularly magnetic personality, which may be due to his ability to forget himself in his big work, and his interest in others. Attendance on his evening meetings, and interest are increasing.

Today he will speak at the noon meeting of the Rotary club. He feels that the weather man has not been very kind to him in providing this brand of weather for the one week he is to be in Glendale. He had reserved this week for a vacation rest and then was persuaded to sacrifice it to Glendale. From here he is to go north for a week in Fresno county, then three weeks in Stockton, a week in San Francisco, from there to Denver, Colorado, and on to St. Louis, and from there east to spend 48 hours at each division point among the men and boys employed by the railroads. They are brought in for a 48-hour conference. To cover all these division points he will make two round trips across the continent, returning the first time by the Southern Pacific, going east again by the Santa Fe and back by the Canadian Pacific. He has been engaged to make these tours by the International Y. M. C. A., and cancelled an engagement to go to Europe in May to cover it. Next December he goes to China to lecture in all the Chinese government colleges. This will be possible because English is the language of instruction. This is partly because there are so many English speaking professors on the faculty and partly because China has no universal language, but is a land of many dialects differing so widely that students in adjoining provinces can hardly understand each other. When confronted with this problem in their colleges, officials chose to adopt English because of their friendship for the United States. The action of this country in returning the indemnity offered by China for the damage caused by the Boxer rebellion, made a deep impression, Mr. Rimmer says, and they do not resent as do the Japanese, the efforts of this country to restrict immigration.

LEADVILLE IS SHOCKED BY NEWSPAPER

Declares the Town Is Run Wide Open and Proves It

LEADVILLE, Colo., Feb. 1.—(United Press).—Leadville citizens that is, some of them—are recovering from the shock of an exposure made by a local newspaper of "night life" in the once famous mining town, known from coast to coast in the early days for its wide-open character. The exposure followed a particularly free holiday celebration.

Under the heading "Leadville's Night Life Still Burning Brightly," the newspaper proclaims that the "Days of '19" are revived in 1923.

A reporter visited the various "hell holes" and here are some of the things he described without qualification in the article, with names and places given in every instance:

Famous old bars selling drinks openly.

Gambling going on in many establishments.

Hundred dollar "fines" paid quarterly to authorities for protection.

Red light district running wide open.

Murder and fighting as in the rough and ready early days.

THE WEATHER
Southern California: Tonight and Friday, unsettled, occasionally threatening; probably frost in exposed places tonight in the interior. Los Angeles and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; frost tonight.

FREE SEED AT THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS

Every citizen of the United States is entitled, at this time of the year, to a package of garden seed, so that he may spend his spring mornings watching the frivolous radish sprout, the slender onion rise and the beet, best.

The Glendale Daily Press has received fifty or more packages from the government for free distribution. Anyone who wishes to prepare for the great outdoor sport of sprouting your own may come and get a package at the Press office.

CITY TREASURER BELIEVES WATER STOCK VALUABLE

J. C. Sherer Explains the Value of Verdugo Canyon Co. Holdings

In an interesting communication to the Glendale Daily Press, J. C. Sherer, city treasurer, refers to the city's action on its majority control of the Verdugo Canyon Water company's stock issue, reported in the Press of Friday wherein reference to ownership was based, in the general sense, on securing of control. Mr. Sherer's letter follows:

"An item appeared in your last Friday's issue, which is misleading and I believe you will wish to have it corrected. In reference to the decision of the city council to buy no more shares of Verdugo Canyon Water company stock, it was stated that the city now owns the company. As a matter of fact the city is only a stockholder in the company, having a majority interest, or about 4400 shares out of a total of 7500. The city does not even own a majority of the Verdugo Canyon water, which is divided into ten thousand parts, of which originally Messrs. Thom and Ross owned approximately one-fourth, and still retain ownership in something like 2000 parts; they not being stockholders in the Verdugo Canyon Water company, which is merely a distributing company, not owning water. As a rule when the city of Glendale has bought the stock it has at the same acquired a deed to the water from the individual owner. The city has bought this stock for $5 per share recently because a number of owners, having no use for it, reasoned that it was not worthwhile to hold on to it. This is not the opinion of others, however, who are fairly acquainted with the water situation. On the basis of $2,000 per miner's inch (which is conservative) a share of stock in the Verdugo Canyon Water company in connection with an individual ownership in the water, is fairly worth about $20, estimated on its intrinsic value and not based upon the ridiculously low price which the city has been paying for it because there happens to be no other purchaser in sight. If the city of Glendale could acquire all the water rights in Verdugo Canyon at a price four or five times as much per share as the one it has recently been paying, it would be an investment far better than any that it has yet made. If anyone doubts my estimate of the value of this property intrinsically, I refer him to owners of Verdugo Canyon water in North Glendale."

EXAMINE DUST IN PRINTING ROOMS

To Discover Phthisis in the Fluff of the Type-setting Plants

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—Air and dust examination in six commercial printing plants in Pittsburgh and Washington will be made by the United States Bureau of Mines to determine the metallic contents of "printers' list," the fluffy substance which collects in type boxes and forms, it has been announced at headquarters of the International Typographical union here.

Results of the examinations will be submitted to Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, in charge of the union's nation-wide health survey in the printing trades. General investigations of shop conditions have been made in 50 Boston printing plants. The survey will include visits to plants in Richmond, Va.; Charleston, S. C.; Atlanta, Memphis, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Conditions in most printing plants are very good as regards ventilation and similar health provisions, but the continued prevalence of so-called "dust phthisis" among printers is deserving of inquiry, union officials said.

$1,024,336 BUILDING IN FIRST MONTH

January Total at Close of Building Exceeds That of April, 1922

FEBRUARY REPEATER

Indications That the City Will Grow at This Rate for the Year

Building permits in Glendale for the month of January ran up the grand total of $1,024,336. The total up to noon yesterday was $1,008,336, but the four permits that were issued during the afternoon brought the figure up to the larger amount.

Last month was the record building permit month in Glendale's history. It tops by $1,637 the record of April, 1922, when the permits amounted to $1,022,599, and which was, up to that time, the record month.

At least two large building permits will be taken out during February, which, it is understood, will amount to almost one million dollars in themselves. Many smaller permits are contemplated.

The permits issued yesterday afternoon were as follows:

Lillian M. Killinger, 116 Olive, 5 rooms and garage, B. H. Clinic, contractor$3,000
Dick Michel, 1444 Dorothy Drive, 5 rooms and garage..... 4,500
William J. Barnes, 1417 North Columbus, 5 rooms and garage 4,500
Same, 630 West Wilson, 5 rooms and garage 4,000

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB TO BEGIN CONSTRUCTION

Plans for Elaborate Home and Golf Course Are Completed

The floor plans for the Oakmont Country Club's clubhouse are now completed and will be presented to the board of governors immediately upon the return of H. S. Webb, president of the club, who is expected to return from a business trip to New York tomorrow.

Of English architecture, with a length of 300 feet and an average depth of 50 feet, floor space is provided for every function the members wish to stage. Starting at the south end are the ladies' quarters, consisting of lounge and card room, dressing room, showers and baths and locker room; next comes the main lounge 40x60, with a double fireplace in the center spreading its cheer to all corners of the room. Two entrances to the lounge will take care of members who come in from the golf course or when alighting from their machines.

The executive offices of the club will be to the right of the west entrance and the steward's quarters to the left.

Separated from the lounge by glass folding doors is the main dining room 40x70, with accommodations for over 200.

Next comes the heart of the clubhouse, the kitchen, of ample proportions for every emergency and designed to handle the members' wants quickly and efficiently.

Immediately behind the kitchen comes the men's grill with a seating capacity of 100 and a specially designed counter for rush orders on busy days. Opening off the grill is the billiard room with two tables, one for billiards and one for pool that will be appreciated by the men. Opening off the grill is also the men's shower rooms and lockers with every convenience dear to the hearts of golfers.

While there are more elaborately constructed and finished clubs in Southern California, there are none that will compare with the Oakmont Country club for floor space with convenience and economy of operation the paramount features. In addition the general plan of furnishing will give a homey and cheerful atmosphere, most desirable in a country club where the members desire to have most of their dances and other social function of an informal nature.

Max Behr has completed his design of the golf course and the results of his three weeks' study of the grounds are highly gratifying to the officials of the club, as we are going to have the longest, sportiest and most interesting course for either the beginner or the finished golfer that is to be found in all of Southern California.

RABIES REGULATION

The mess of the dog ordinance, made by the city council in its first draft, given publicity, which will be corrected, has raised a storm of proper disapproval.

Mingled in the wrath that has upraised have been voices arraigning serums and physicians and proclaiming all the isms to which modern civilization is addicted.

The cry of "mad dog" has been raised again in Glendale by the constituted authorities of the city board of health. A dog has been found with true rabies and it has been killed. It may have started something, by attacks on other dogs.

This all upon the authority of the city health department, which is Dr. Kaemmerling.

If Dr. Kaemmerling is a reliable physician he should be a conscientious official. If he is both, and we do not doubt it, he should be supported. He should draw his own ordinance and submit it to the city council. And in it he should charge himself with consideration not only for the public health but for the private purse of the citizens of this community.

The price of vaccination, fixed in the council's ordinance, its regulatory provisions cannot reflect the best thought of the city health department. The illogic of its whole construction is apparent.

The ordinance as proposed has caused a good many people to register protests against it.

As drafted, the ordinance is wrong, and should never be passed.

The Glendale Daily Press recognizes the value of the dog in its human relations, but where a human life is to be taken into consideration we must not allow love for our dogs to interfere with our duty to humanity.

Word was received yesterday that Bernal Nordstrand, 6340 Fountain avenue, Hollywood, had succumbed to rabies, due to a dog bite. He was bitten on the cheek. Proper treatment could not be administered.

To make certain that Glendale is protected against the danger due to stray dogs, some protective ordinance must be adopted and enforced.

Propaganda coming now and again on the dog question must cease. It is advertising that does no good.

The bulletin of January 20, issued by the state board of health, gives the following table of rabies in the state. This table should prove conclusively that something must be done to eliminate the large number of cases of rabies in our county.

The following table indicates in which counties of California rabies appeared during the past year:

County	Cases in Animals	Cases in Humans
Alameda	35
Contra Costa	5
Inyo	2
Kern	2
Kings	6
Lassen	1
Los Angeles	427	4
Modoc	1
Monterey	1
Orange	15
Placer	2
Riverside	18
Sacramento	1
San Bernardino	18
San Diego	3
San Joaquin	3
Siskiyou	1
Solano	1
Stanislaus	2
Totals	544	4

Whether this be in the form of an ordinance compelling vaccination or one compelling owners to keep dogs on confined premises is the question.

The last ordinance was unfair both to the dogs and their owners. Consequently, it died of itself.

If the dog owners will get together, an ordinance can be passed that will be protective but not unfair.

Kings county has recently passed a law that a dog be either vaccinated or be confined to the premises of its owner. This is in line with our idea.

Dogs that are kept in kennels and not allowed to run at large are not a menace to the public and should not come under a vaccination ordinance.

We would suggest that the proposed ordinance be changed to read in accordance with that of Kings county, covering stray dogs only.

We understand that Japan has a law covering vaccination of dogs and that the records there show that of 30,000 dogs vaccinated, only two became rabid.

So far as the cat provision of the ordinance is concerned, it may just as well be eliminated as unnecessary harassing to the cat lovers of the city. There is, so the Glendale Daily Press has discovered, no technic for vaccination of cats. In other words, it is never done. If a mad dog ever caught a cat, that cat unquestionably lost each and every one of its nine lives and in the process had no time to scratch another cat or person. Its last efforts would be normally confined to the dog in charge.

Let us be sensible. Let us have a carefully considered ordinance that will protect all our children, all of our pets and all of our homes; and eliminate the wandering curs, whether rabid or not, which attack little children in our streets. A dog that attacks a child should be killed, whether mad or not, whether pet stock or running loose.

It will not only reflect credit on the club, but will be a permanent boost for our city and spread the fame of Glendale over the whole United States.

With a length of 6,445 yards, much desired championship match, as can be staged that will bring hundreds of golfers from all over the country to participate and witness the competition and it is up to Glendale to have hotel facilities here to house them.

The organization of a high class golf club, such as the Oakmont, together with our new hotel, is going to put Glendale in a very favorable position where it will be able to rival Pasadena as a tourist center.

The board of directors requests that any who intend joining the club among the first two hundred charter members, send in their applications at once as a check shows that they will be exhausted soon and a personal call by the membership committee on all those that intend joining will be impossible.

Congregational Church Dedication

Plans are now being made for the dedication of the Glendale Congregational church in the near future, probably within a month.

Quite a large delegation from the Glendale Congregational church will attend the annual meeting of the Congregational Church Extension society, to be held at the First Congregational church of Los Angeles next Friday evening.

HORSE SHOERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Elect Glendalians As Officers and Select Tournament Location

The California State Horseshoe Pitchers' Association held its annual state meeting on the grounds of the South Park Club on January 27 and elected officers for the year 1923, changed a few rules and decided upon the place of the next tournament in the state.

George T. Fain of Glendale was elected president. Secretary George E. Kimball of Long Beach and Treasurer Walt H. Nicoles of Glendale were re-elected.

The 1923 tournament will be held at Santa Monica on a date to be decided by the local club.

The amended rules require that all of the tournament contests must be decided on at the meet. All pitchers entered must be present when events are called or lose their entry.

A committee of three, consisting of Ross of Long Beach, White of Pasadena, and Osborn of South Park, was appointed to arrange tournament contests among the different clubs during the season and classify them for the tournament.

NEW STREET SIGN ENDORSED BY C. OF C.

W. E. Hewitt Authorized to Bring N. Y. System Before City Council

At the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, held Wednesday evening, plans for the annual meeting to be held next Tuesday were announced; plans and specifications for a new system of street signs were submitted by W. E. Hewitt; a letter addressed to the Los Angeles mayor and city council to be signed by the chamber officials was approved, the same being a demand that the P. E. fares be reduced or that the Second street tunnel be completed; a resolution was adopted appealing to the state highway commission to improve transcontinental highways leading into California; and the directors went on record as approving the proposed merchants' industrial exposition.

Mr. Hewitt explained that so deeply impressed had he been by the street signs of New York city that he secured the plans and specifications. These he exhibited. They provide for posts at street corners bearing the name "West Broadway," "East Broadway," etc. He was authorized by the directors to appear before the Glendale city council tonight and present the matter, with a recommendation that this method be substituted for the present signs on the curbs.

In view of the fact that the railway commission allowed the Pacific Electric railway to increase its fares to Glendale on the ground of the expenditures it was making for a tunnel at First street, and that the tunnel has never been constructed, a letter of protest, was approved.

Secretary Rhoades called attention to the annual meeting and dinner to be held next Tuesday evening, which will be chiefly a business session, but which will be addressed by Rev. Henry Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, who is said to be an authority on chambers of commerce. The development of a program for the coming year will be the principal theme of the meeting.

The board passed a resolution similar to resolutions passed by many other chambers throughout the state, appealing to the state highway commission to improve transcontinental highways cutting the state, declaring that the old national trail between Los Angeles and Needles is almost impassable; that the midland trail via Mojave and Goldfield is in a dangerous condition; that the Lincoln highway via Reno is also in bad shape.

Directors also approved the proposed merchants' industrial exposition as recommended by the advertising committee composed of W. L. Twining, chairman, and Messrs. McCormick and Reeves. The committee was asked to appear before the Merchants' Credit association and ask its co-operation and assistance, with the understanding that the money realized from such an exposition be used to advertise Glendale through the civics committee of the chamber.

Pasadena's proud and haughty leaders of the southern section of the American Legion Basketball League came to our town last night all set to walk over Glendale's Tossers. Did they do it? No, they did not! Score, 30 to 23, in favor of Glendale. End of first half, 16 to 14, in Glendale's favor.

They beat themselves. The game was fast and hard fought; from the first whistle. The game belonged to anyone until the middle of the final quarter when Whelton ringed three in a row from the floor.

HOUSE COMMITTEE OF TUESDAY CLUB MEETS

Nearly Ready to Arrange Rentals of Auditorium at New Home

The clubhouse is so near completion that the committee hopes to be in a position before long to make engagements with various organizations for the rental of the building. UNION ICE PLANT COMES TO GLENDALE

One of Best Equipped in State to Be Built Here

TO MEET BIG DEMAND

Company Decides the City Has Outgrown Its Present Facilities

If anyone is looking for additional proof that Glendale is the most rapidly growing community of its size in California he can find it in the decision of the Union Ice company to build here one of the latest and best equipped ice manufacturing plants in the state.

The decision to construct a big ice plant here was reached only after the officials of the Union Ice company had made a thorough study and survey of the situation. This convinced them not only that Glendale already has far outgrown its present facilities for obtaining ice, but also that the city is certain of a future development and growth which amply justifies the expenditure of a large sum for an ice plant to take care of future needs.

Heretofore the Union Ice company has supplied Glendale through the Glendale Ice Delivery company, transporting the product here from Los Angeles and Hollywood. With the completion of the new plant Glendale will have its own ice supply, and the capacity of the plant will be such that the city will be assured of an adequate supply for years to come.

The big plant will be erected in Glendale's new industrial zone on San Fernando boulevard. The contract for building the plant has been awarded to the Gay Engineering corporation. Myron Hunt is the architect, and he has extended himself to have the plant recognized as the latest word in ice plant construction.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete and steel, thoroughly fireproof and equipped with every modern scientific facility for producing an absolutely pure and sanitary product.

With the selection of Glendale as the location of the new ice plant, it may be of interest to know that the manufacture of ice is becoming more and more centralized in places where the greatest need for it exists, in order to do away with the problems of transportation and storage. The mechanical production of ice has now reached a high degree of perfection. In this country we now make forty million tons of it annually, worth about two hundred million dollars. Five thousand big plants turn it out, and thousands of hotels, restaurants, hospitals, etc., have small plants of their own. Fifty years ago there were only three ice plants in the entire country.

BIG SCOUT RALLY IN LOS ANGELES

Chief Executive West Calls All to Meet Him This Evening

2nd CALL IN 13 YEARS

Monstrous Banquet to Be Held at Y. M. C. A. for Six Hundred

This evening will mark a big event in the annals of scouting in Southern California when for the second time in 13 years James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will be in Los Angeles to welcome all the scouts and scout leaders south of the Tehachas.

At 6:30 this evening at the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A., a monstrous banquet and reception will be given to Mr. West by the scout leaders of Southern California. Places will be laid for more than 600 people, and to date practically every one of these places has been reserved in advance. Mayor Spencer Robinson and Harry Girard have been invited to attend the banquet as the guests of the Los Angeles council and they will sing several of their beautiful songs. The Pasadena Hawaiian Boy Scout Orchestra will play several selections as also will the Los Angeles Boy Scout Band. The speaker of the evening will be the chief scout executive, of course. To borrow a homely but familiar metaphor, Mr. West is a man who has "raised himself by his own boot straps." From an unknown orphan boy he has risen to the point where he heads an army of scouts. He conducts one of the greatest engineering industries in the world, leads one of the biggest armies this country has ever known, is the executive head of a business which claims branches in thousands of cities, towns, villages and hamlets; is the director of the most elaborate and practical plan of recreational instruction ever introduced into the nation, and is the idol of millions of youngsters and grownups who have felt his influence through the commodity he handles—"Scout Craft."

Mr. West will have a stirring and enthusiastic message for every scout leader in Southern California. The scout leaders of the Verdugo Hills District, consisting of scout masters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committeemen, council members and commissioners, will meet this evening at 6 o'clock at the local boy scout headquarters, 103 1/2 South Brand boulevard, and will go in a united body to the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A.

"It is very important," stated Scout Executive Harold Benner this morning, "that every scout leader or councilman who plans to hear Mr. West should meet at the scout office not later than 6 o'clock which barely gives us a half hour to reach Los Angeles in time for the opening of the banquet."

OLD PALMER HOUSE TO PASS

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The old Palmer House, internationally famous Chicago hotel, will soon pass into history. On the site will rise the new "Palmer House," twenty-three stories high and costing $12,000,000 owned and operated by the Palmer estate.

The new building will contain 2000 rooms, connected to 500 rooms in the old structure, and will differ from other American hotels in several ways. Five lower floors will be devoted to sample rooms.

The first story will contain nothing but shops and two arcades running to three entrances. The hotel offices and lobbies will be on the second floor. The main lobby will be 125 by 85 feet. A huge grill will be located in the basement.

The old Palmer House was erected in 1873 by Potter Palmer and has been the stopping place for countless celebrities. The floor of the barber shop, set with silver dollars between the tiles, probably brought more fame to the hotel than any other feature.

Thirty years ago, without a visit to Chicago, without a glimpse of the silver-floored barber shop, was considered a waste of time. In the olden days, the ambition of the average middle-west lad was to attain a degree of influence that would permit of a visit to the Palmer House as a guest, with at least a resident interest in this buried treasure.

Truth may be stranger than fiction, but it is less valuable in literature.

OUR PEACOCK IS ATTENDING MEET IN ONTARIO, CAN.

Glendale's peacock is to be boosting for this city at the annual exhibition and convention of horticultural delegates at Ontario, Canada, on February 1 and 2, according to J. E. Brown of Kingsville, Ontario, who was a spectator at the Pasadena tournament of roses parade on New Year's day. Mr. Brown was so impressed with the beauty of the peacock that he had stereoscopic slides made from negatives of pictures taken during the parade. Mr. Brown speaks highly of the beautiful Southland and especially of Glendale, "The Jewel City." He is a winter visitor here and may remain here permanently, as he has ventured in the bulb business at 833 South Olive street, Los Angeles. Like all others who have visited this lovely clime he has become an ardent booster right away.

BODY OF DEAD MAN IS FOUND ON TRAIL

Chas. Caplin, 11 Years Old, Tells Police of Ghastly Discovery

Hunting for the body of a dead man, from and half eaten by coyotes, Marshal Cole and Officers Olchvary and Marygold of the Burbank police department and two men from the county sheriff's office, under the direction of Charles Caplin, left this morning over the scenic trail for the Verdugo mountains. An 11-year-old school boy, Everett Cline, guided them.

The man was found Wednesday afternoon when the little Cline boy was out for a merry sport in the newly fallen snow, and stumbled over the half dead body. Frightened, the youngster did not stop to make more than a hasty examination, but picked up a rifle found alongside of the body and came racing down the hill to the office of the Burbank police department. Marshal Cole immediately sent up his men, but it was dark and the weather would not permit of a thorough search that night. The officers returned and notified the sheriff's office last night. This morning the sheriff sent out his men. It is expected that the body will be brought back this afternoon.

IOWA RESERVE ARMY TO HUNT BOOTLEGGERS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 1.—A reserve army of 200 deputies, ready for instant duty in their respective townships, will go far toward solving the difficulties which vicious roadhouses, bootleggers and speeders have caused Polk county authorities.

That is the belief of Sheriff Park Findley, successor to Winfred Robb, the fighting parson, who went out of office January 2 in the middle of a legal squabble over "who got the county's booze."

Under the system which Sheriff Findley has instituted, at the suggestion of County Attorney Vernon Seeburger, every township has a "captain" who was sworn in as a deputy and given permission to carry a gun.

The captain, with other deputies under him, has authority to inspect roadhouses, hunt bootleggers and chase speed maniacs. He is empowered to make arrests.

The plan was recently laid before the leading men from the townships and received their support. Prominent men in each township were chosen as captains and made responsible to the sheriff for the men under them.

The sparsely populated rural districts have always furnished a problem to authorities seeking to apprehend criminals and several states have organized state police to meet these difficulties.

With a county police ready for instant mobilization and serving as a nucleus for a posse that might be organized at any time, Sheriff Findley thinks he can make the "hand" of the law fully as quick as the "eye."

CO-EDS FIGHT LONG SKIRTS AT BOULDER

BOULDER, Colo., Feb. 1 (United Press).—The 8 o'clock class at the University of Colorado, is the first reason why the new long skirts will never be popular with co-eds at the school. Advocates of the short skirt, who are determined, despite the dictates of fashion, to cling to the abbreviated form of dress, declare the long skirt interferes with running to "an 8 o'clock" when the wearer is late. A canvass of the women at the institution reveals that not only do they not like the new style, but they don't intend to adopt it. A general movement to fight the introduction of the ankle-length skirt has been suggested by co-eds. Male students are almost unanimously against the new style.

First Bath In 7 Years, So Town Declares a Holiday

It is not the custom in America to declare a holiday, hold a procession and go cheering through the streets, merely because one is going to take a bath. But they do in Poland, Latvia and Roumania, and no wonder, for most of them have not had a chance to get into a bath tub for seven years. Therein lies the great deal of their tragedy. Dirt brings disease and, in lands where there is no soap and the rivers are frozen, conditions can only be alleviated by starting with the bath.

The medico-sanitary staff of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee is working hard in these territories for health, cleanliness campaigns, and "Massed bathing processions" are conducted after the erection of great bath houses, with tubs and showers, steam baths, and disinfecting opens.

In most cases it is necessary to completely reclothe the bathers in new garments for what they take off is a mass of rags unwashed for years. This work is being conducted without regard to sect or race, and in Poland alone the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee has in operation or near completion over 200 new bath houses besides the ones that have been remodeled and equipped. A professor of the Harvard School of Medicine, who served in Poland for the Committee, describes a scene at Hoszka where 1200 people gathered to cheer for America when the bath house was opened. The coming generation in Poland is dating its first chance to grow up with health and strength from the day when the Committee is able to provide bathing facilities in each individual town. This is one of the ways typhus and favus, another infectious disease which has 20,000 victims in Poland, is being stamped out.

T. L. TOTMAN NOW OWNS LANDED ESTATE PEARLS IN OHIO MOUND

Will Develop Picturesque Hill Property and Build Beautiful Homes

T. L. Totman, the genial manager of Chaffee's Glendale store, has become a landed proprietor. Some months ago he bought an "estate" in Verdugo Woodlands. It has a frontage of 150 feet on the west side of Hermosita drive and extends back 230 feet, the way surveyors measure, which is the horizontal plane distance from front to rear. But the property extends up and over a hill 100 or more feet in height, across a canyon and part way up another hill, so that the curving contour, if stretched out flat, would show a property depth of 500 instead of 230 feet. So there are 270 square rods, not far from two acres, in the tract, instead of slightly less than an acre, as indicated by the surveyor's measure. He has already built and occupied a pleasant 4-room stucco home and has under construction a winding S-shaped road, way, along which he will build, from time to time, ten more houses, for rental or sale. This, when completed, will be a picturesque addition to the many beauty spots of this scenic section of our wonderful city.

The Benton Case and B. B.'s Watchdogs

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Every time anything like the present Rubie Benton case comes to light the mistakes made in the days before Commissioner Landis took charge of baseball are made more and more striking.

The tendency to use the whitewash brush instead of the iron rod is responsible for every mess into which organized baseball has found itself.

Figuring that some safety rested in silence and that the interest of business demanded covering up, organized baseball took the attitude that the Hat Chase, Heinie, Leo Magee, Benton and other cases were none of the fans' business and they allowed the public to think as it wished.

So in 1919 it is not surprising that the "Black Sox" thought: "We can get away with this. Even if we do get caught, they won't let it get out."

Ban Johnson has always aspired to the role of the watchdog of baseball, the guardian of the grand national pastime; always on duty to watch and safeguard the sport.

Since he was the first to raise the row publicly about the return of Rubie Benton to the major league, Ban probably thinks his duty nobly done in this instance.

In advancing any claims for honor and glory in this case, however, Ban might explain why it was that it took him three years to complain that Benton made a bet on the Cincinnati Reds in the 1919 world's series.

Some day when he is in a reminiscent mood, Ban also might explain why it was that the White Sox scandal was never made public by him until it looked like the Sox were going to beat out the Cleveland Indians for the 1920 pennant, when Ban had known about the scandal for a year.

Ban and John Heydler, National league president, and Commissioner Landis might also explain how they can allow Benton to play in a minor league without protest, if he is barred from the majors.

PLUMBERS ADOPT EMBLEM OF INDUSTRY

Monthly Meeting of the Sanitary Development League Is Held

Adoption of an emblem typifying the high ideals and business principles of the plumbing industry marked the monthly meeting of the Sanitary Development League of Southern California just held in Los Angeles.

The slogan acclaims reputation as the greatest asset of members of the organization and the emblem a metal disc to be displayed by the more than 200 leading plumbing concerns enrolled in the league, expresses the spirit of the present educational campaign to induce the use of more modern methods of sanitation and better plumbing materials.

It is announced that a cash prize has been awarded to Ray H. Roemer, chairman of the publicity committee, for submitting the best slogan and design for an emblem. The emblems are being made and will be sent to members within a few days. This will identify members of the league with the movement for better plumbing that is being conducted by the organization.

Henry Boynton, secretary, stated that more than fifty leading plumbing firms in Southern California cities have joined the league since the campaign was launched last month. These new members were accepted only after an investigating committee had assured itself that they are in harmony with the aims of the league and will adhere to the lofty principles upon which it is founded.

"There is a general movement for more substantial building, for the use of better materials of every kind in homes, office buildings, industrial and manufacturing plants," said Boynton. "The influence of the campaign of the plumbing industry to safeguard health and to protect this and future generations is proving very satisfactory. This is largely due to the fact that the public press is cooperating with us."

HUMAN INTEREST IN STOCK SALES OF SO. CAL. GAS

That all sorts of people are attracted by the offering of securities in blocks of from one share upwards is shown by a few typical experiences out of the first week of the offering of its 6% cumulative preferred stock by the Southern California Gas Company.

A lady 73 years young, who said she was looking to the future, came in and bought one share on the installment plan. Her income consists of $50 a month sent to her by her son who lives in the east. Her only complaint against the gas company was that sometimes the collector got away so quickly that she couldn't pay him.

The mother of a boy of eighteen came in and purchased one share of stock for cash. The boy had saved the money by the war savings route. She was anxious that he continue to hold his savings idea and to see the benefits to be derived from the safe investment of money.

The vice-president of one of the largest national banks said: "I have never before done such a thing, but I am going to buy the limit subscription of this stock, 50 shares, and pay for it on the installment plan. I have a new granddaughter who came last week and I am going to give the stock to her."

People generally are appreciative of the opportunity to put their money to work where the integrity of the management is assured and particularly where they knew that the money is being devoted to community upbuilding.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Worth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Adv.

MUSIC CLUB CAPTIVATED BY ARTISTS

Bohemian Contralto and Alfred Kastner, Harp
Virtuoso Give Concert

CHARTER DAY NEAR

Members Urged to Secure
Membership of 1000
for Year

The members of the Glendale Music club were afforded the opportunity and the treat of hearing Mme. Ana Ruzena Sprotte, Bohemian contralto, and Alfred Kastner, harp virtuoso, at the high school auditorium last night in one of the most brilliant concerts given before that organization. Mme. Sprotte is the possessor of a wonderfully rich contralto voice. She sang with much feeling and seemed to take as much joy in singing as did the listeners in hearing her. Mr. Kastner is also a rare artist at the harp and did the most brilliant playing on that instrument that has been heard here.

Before presenting the artists, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music club, announced the celebration of the second birthday anniversary of the club, or "Charter Day," on February 16. Only members of the club will be admitted to the concert, which has been arranged so as to be of equal interest to the members of the adult club as well as the junior and juvenile auxiliaries. It is the desire of the executive board to bring the membership up to 1000 and to the number who secure the largest number of new members, or 200 and above five, between now and Feb. 16, will be presented a silver trophy.

The first group on the program was given by Mme. Sprotte, accompanied at the harp by Mr. Kastner. This included the ever-popular "Ave Maria" (Schubert), "Si mes vœux avaient des ailes" (E. Hahn), and "Serenade" (Gounod). The second group was given by Mr. Kastner and included "Adagio" from "Moonlight Sonata" (Beethoven) and "Impromptu Caprice" (G. Biehn).

A very delightful, informal talk on Bohemian music was given by Mme. Sprotte, who also sang three Bohemian folk songs. She told particularly of the composers, Dvorak and Smetana. "The Bohemian people," she said, "is truly an opera for the people. It tells a Bohemian folk tale and employs Bohemian folk music and dances. The Bohemian people encourage their own musicians and composers. They will go time and again to hear the same opera, some of them knowing every note of the entire opera scores."

The part that the dance plays in the life of the people of Bohemia and the resemblance between their dance rhythms and the jazz music of America were also discussed by Mme. Sprotte, who later sang a group of folk songs. As an encore she sang "Songs My Mother Taught Me," accompanying herself at the piano.

An original composition by Mr. Kastner was included in his next group, "Bagatelle," a happy and interesting melody, which was followed by "Dance of the Sylphs" (F. Godtfrid). As an encore he played "Rustling of Spring" (Sinding). Mme. Sprotte's next group included "Mother, My Dear" (Treharne), "Inter Nos" and "Spring Singing," both by MacFayden. So splendid was her singing of the latter number that she was compelled to repeat it as an encore number. She was accompanied at the piano by Mr. Kastner.

The closing numbers on this very delightful program were by Mr. Kastner, who played "Song Without Words" (Mendelssohn) and "Love Dream" (Liszt).

CHRISTIAN CHURCH LITTLE PREMIUM MKT. OUTGROWS ITS QUARTERS

Speaker Is Heard With Interest by Big Audience in Edifice

At the meeting for young people conducted at the Christian church Wednesday night by Harry Rimmer, which was very well attended, the theme of the speaker was "The Human Speck." His application was the universe, made up over 53,000,000 stars, moons and suns, of which the earth is but one and California and Glendale a very small part of that one. "We all admit," said he, "there is some governing power which makes the solar system function, and the question is whether this human speck is subject to the same laws." He showed how God cares for the whole but also cares for each, that not a sparrow can fall without His knowledge. Elaborating on this he dwelt on mother love which always misses the absent no matter how many others may be there.

The quartet of the First Methodist church sang "Smiling," and for an encore number "On the King's Highway." Herbert Bruck played a violin solo and will play again tonight.

Mr. Rimmer's theme at the afternoon meeting Wednesday was "A Man's Eye," and his text was taken from II Corinthians, 5th Chapter and 7th verse: "For we walk by faith, not by sight."

He proved in a variety of ways how uncertain a dependence is sight alone. Said he:

"We live our daily life by faith. You think 'faith' is an invention of theologians to explain a lot of things, but in reality 'it is the great foundation of human life. You confidently sit down because you have faith in the legs of the chair, you take your place in a trolley car with faith that it will carry you to your destination. When you plan what you are going to do tomorrow it is an act of faith."

David Donwell to Build
New Building to House
Popular Business

The first move in the promised building boom in the eastern side of the city is being made by David Donwell, who for the past two years has conducted the Little Premium market on North Glendale avenue. Mr. Donwell is starting work today on a new and larger building to house his rapidly growing business. The new structure will be 50 by 75 feet in size and will cost about $15,000. It will be finished within 30 days.

The new building will be constructed of yellow brick, with white tile trim. It will have white enamel front and will be modern in every way. The fixtures in the store will cost about $5000.

A unique method of conducting business while the new building is going up will be maintained by Mr. Donwell. The new structure will be erected around the present building. When the new store is ready for occupancy the old building will be removed, so that no time will be lost and the public will be inconvenienced very little.

When the new store is finished the name of this firm will be changed from Little Premium market to the Premium Produce company, which will sell wholesale and retail. A complete line of groceries will be added and the stock of meats will be greatly enlarged. A fruit and vegetable stand will be maintained at the front-center of the store.

The idea of Mr. Donwell is to make his place one of the most popular places of business in Glendale. He will round out his market so as to take care of his customers' every market need.

When asked, this morning, what contributed most to his success since coming here, Mr. Donwell replied:

"Selling good goods at honest prices; fair and square treatment all the time, and advertising—in the Glendale Press."

Truths in Epigram

Life is not mere living but the enjoyment of health.—Martial.

A sound mind in a sound body is a short but full description of a happy state in this world.—Locke.

It is a true saying that we must eat many measures of salt together to be able to discharge the functions of friendship.—Cicero.

REGARDING FRATERNITY

Recently a member of the crew of a battleship at San Pedro was killed on duty. He left a family, in a little home on which was a mortgage of $1500. By the time the funeral had been arranged, his shipmates had collected this sum and handed it to the widow. It represented what each contributed out of his earnings. No urging was necessary, and none was attempted. Quickly, voluntarily and without any blurring of their purpose, the men did this. Such a spirit may be described as fraternal. Men in the navy rank and file do not get high pay. They do not as a rule, conserve very punctiliously such pay as they do receive. It is likely to be scattered to the winds of the most convenient port. Yet in an emergency their impulse was to be kind and to be generous.

Certain men are on trial in the courts of Los Angeles for conspiring to overthrow the government. Of course nobody fears that they might succeed. Their methods are noisy and annoying, and in some instances cause damage. Therefore the necessity for restraining them. Freedom of speech may be construed as giving the right to talk sabotage, but the practice of sabotage goes a step too far. The prisoners affirm that they wish to establish the brotherhood of man. But nobody who believes in working and bathing, with occasional change of raiment, could desire to belong to a brotherhood established by the lazy agitator, the communism addict or the plain bum. Their organization would have to leave out all elements of respectability, and thus the police would be likely to interfere with it.

Bellowing in favor of brotherhood, and casting a bomb for emphasis, does not create the brotherhood, nor even show a desire for it. In the best sense, a band of criminals is not a brotherhood. They profess to be. And the crew of the California discovers to its own surprise that this is a fine brotherhood, without ever having made any professions at all.

THE RUSSIAN BUTTINSKIS

Germany, keeping its head to a certain extent, in the midst of its troubles, appeals to Russia. It is not an appeal for aid, but for the soiled hands of the soviets to be kept off the situation. Germany wants no horde bringing red flags, cooties and typhus. It resents the threats of Trotsky to move against peoples not friendly to Germany. It has not failed to perceive the truth that this could do nothing but lead to new complexity. Such standing as Germany has would be sacrificed utterly were it to consent to function at the level where bolshevism pursues a fantasy, and glories in a revolution that has been a world disaster.

Attention has been called many times to a peculiar inconsistency of the soviet breed. Russia's regime asks to be let alone. It asks this while meddling in every affair of all nations. It strives to promote discord, and to fan this into revolt. This is its plan even for the United States. To the aggravation of every labor trouble it is willing to devote money that should be buying milk for its own starving babies. It sends emissaries of mischief to every point at which it suspects there is tinder awaiting a spark.

The attitude of Germany towards Russia is most gratifying. Any nation, not almost overwhelmed by circumstance, could not do otherwise than reject the overtures. There was fear that Germany had touched the plane of desperation that might permit it even this suggested madness. Respect for Germany's discretion is much enhanced by its desire that Russia keep out and attend to the business of Russia.

WAR ON A SUBTLE FOE

All over the land there are indications of a growing resolve to end the reign of narcotics. The evil has reached almost unbelievable magnitude. Its victims are numbered by the countless thousands. Many of them not only are useless to society but a burden and a menace. In large measure the crimes that have arisen to appalling volume are due directly to the desire of addicts to procure the poison that is all that life means to them. Without it they are mad. Indulging in it, they still are mad, but with a different passion. Both these conditions find expression in unlawful acts, and culminate in death in wretchedness and disgrace.

One error in the plan to check the pernicious habit has been in failure to look to the real source. When manufacturing druggists make and sell quantities far greater than would fully meet all proper demands, it is difficult to regard them as innocent of blame. When tons of deadly drugs are shipped into Mexico, where there is call for them only that they may be smuggled back across the line to be peddled by the prowling ghoul of the dark alley and the slum, or served in the place of secret orgies, such shipments should be rigorously stopped.

The purveyor of illicit drugs, be he high or low, richly merits being classed as a felon. He is the enemy of society, of the home, of decency. Perhaps he is himself an addict, but in instances, he is too shrewd. The addict takes a morbid delight in coaxing others into his own evil ways. Beauty, innocence and childhood are not spared. He becomes accessory to every form of vice, to every type of crime. He is the inspiration of the assassin, the thief, and the forger. He strengthens the arm of the highway bandit, and equips the coward with courage and cunning.

Some addicts are worth saving. Others are too far gone morally and physically to be benefited by treatment. Restraint is the utmost that may be done for the latter, imposed less for their sakes than for that of a sane world.

It is to be regretted, perhaps, that the war on illicit drugs should have been heralded as the personal affair of men posing as reformers, but better this than that the public should be left unaware of the peril that assails.

THE ONLY PETER PAN

For several seasons the public has not known the Maude Adams who for perhaps two decades had been admired. She virtually had abandoned the stage, and her activities, benign, and savoring of religious ardor, were in a wholly different field. But the winning personality of Maude Adams never faded from the memory of her admirers. They had extolled the artistry of the actress, and with excellent reason for so doing, but their feeling towards Miss Adams, with whom probably they never had exchanged a word, was closely akin to affection. They realized her as a human being, with real emotions, about the expression of which there was no simulation. When Miss Adams came down to the footlights to talk to the audience she found her way into the hearts of all. There she has had an abiding place. She has been greatly missed. Now comes the formal announcement that her stage career is ended. No specific reason is given. Were she to appear as Peter Pan, the world and his wife would be there to hear and to see.

Miss Adams has played many roles acceptably. Probably it was in the role of Peter Pan that she most joyously and completely caught the spirit of the character, and with unequalled charm, conveyed the sense of it. She was the incarnation of blitheness. She seemed to be the very essence of joy, given visible form.

She has retired from the theatrical world, but she won permanent fame while yet she elected to remain there, and the good wishes of millions will follow her wherever she may be.

Los Angeles councilmen desired to pass an ordinance forbidding the display of pictures featuring a specified actor. The city's legal adviser told them that they could not do this, a fact that they ought to have known in advance.

COLYUMIST OF OTHER DAYS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is a poor newspaper these days that does not employ a colyumist.

That is, somebody who shall say short and pithy things, or at least try.

There was a colyumist a long while ago who lived in France, and whom it might be well for present day writers to study. His name was La Rochefoucauld.

It may be a comfort to the modern wits to know that the sparkling sayings of La Rochefoucauld did not perish in the breeze, but many of them live today. He was a cynic and he believed that everything could be explained by selfishness. In his time he outlast the Smart Set.

Still, he was clever; even what you might called deuced clever.

Subjoined are a few samples which I venture to say are still lively, though they have lain in book toms many a year.

Perhaps the most famous of his epigrams was this, which is bitter enough: "In the adversity of our best friends we often find something which does not displease us."

Others are: "There are some persons so frivolous that they are as far from having real faults as solid qualities."

"Our envy always outlives the happiness of those we envy."

"There are no fools so troublesome as those who have some wit."

"Weakness is more opposed to virtue than vice is."

"It is more easy to become acquainted with men in general than with any man in particular."

"We easily pardon in our friends those faults which do not concern ourselves."

"Minds of moderate calibre ordinarily condemn everything which is beyond their range."

"There are few virtuous women who are not sometimes weary of their profession."

"Little minds are too much hurt by little things."

"We think very few people sensible except those who are of our opinion."

"Weak persons cannot be sincere."

"We often pardon those who weary us, but we cannot pardon those whom we weary."

"Gratitude is the secret desire of receiving great favors."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"TO-DAY" VS. "TODAY"

Examine, if you care to, of a few morning papers and some afternoon papers in the city where you live or happen to be stopping and note how to-day, to-morrow, and to-night are spelt. You will immediately run into an interesting situation, as you will find that some papers spell these words with a hyphen, and some without.

Next, if your interest has been aroused, you will probably note the handling of the hyphen, as far as these words are concerned, in novels and magazines. You will probably find that the hyphen is more regularly used by book publishers, if not pretty well standardized.

Finally, you will consult the dictionary only to find that it is proper to use the hyphen.

Still every modern dictionary should interpret usage. It matters little whether etymologically the hyphen is supposed to have a permanent home in the three words under discussion; it does matter very much whether the great majority of the American people, Americans and Canadians, are writing the words without a hyphen.

The author of "The Right Word" has made a brief preliminary survey of a few newspapers, magazines and books with the following interesting result:

Sixty-eight newspapers, two from London, England, a number from Canada, and the rest from American cities scattered from coast to coast, were examined; forty-seven spell the three words without a hyphen; twenty-one use the hyphen.

Only ten magazines were inspected, but of these four omitted the hyphen and six used it.

Of twelve books examined, all used the hyphen. However, the books represented only four or five different publishing houses.

At some future date "The Right Word" will make a still more complete report.

It is apparent that there are about twice as many papers omitting the hyphen as there are retaining it.

The question, therefore, arises whether the hyphen in the spelling of to-day, to-morrow, and to-night will not some day become obsolete.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A man bought an orchard. For several reasons. He wanted a place to work.

And he wanted to develop something useful.

And he wanted the strength and health and spirit that came from work in the out-of-doors.

It was not a good orchard he bought.

For the previous owner had neglected it.

Just as many of us neglect many things in life.

Health, jobs and responsibilities.

Which are all trees in our spiritual orchards.

At the end of a year they were green and trim and vigorous.

At the end of two years they were in a great measure restored.

And then the blossoms set and the fruit began to grow.

But it was care, cultivation, work and watchful vigilance that brought the trees back.

And kept them as they should be.

And from a neglected orchard it became the pride of the countryside.

For the man knew that with good stock, care, cultivation and labor will do the rest.

Just as with most of us.

The stock is good.

But without care and cultivation the fruit of it is poor in quality and little in quantity.

He knew that much depends on care and cultivation.

The stock was good.

The trees were well rooted and hardy.

So the new owner got it for a reduced price.

It looked bad.

Buyers looked askance at it.

And few purchasers would consider it.

But this purchaser saw possibilities.

He knew that much depends on care and cultivation.

Songs of the Poets

Eurydice—By Francis William Bourdillon (1852—)

He came to call me back from death

To the bright world above.

I hear him yet with trembling breath

Low calling, "O sweet love!

Come back! The earth is just as fair;

The flowers, the open skies are there;

Come back to life and love!"

Oh! all my heart went out to him,

And the sweet air above.

With happy tears my eyes were dim;

And lost were life and love.

ARISTOCRACY, DEMOCRACY AND THE BATH TUB

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

It is the olfactory nerve that largely decides a man's social position. We have outlawed the sense of smell to an extent that even forbids a discussion of it or its functions in polite society; but, discussed or taboo, it goes right on deciding our social status.

People who can afford bathtubs and who use them step into a class above those who are too poor to have bathroom equipment or who, having it, refuse to avail themselves of its advantages.

In a bathtubless country the king will, if it pleases him, willingly hobnob with the coolies, the nostrils of both being dulled to offensive odors. But the American banker who takes his daily dip with a Turkish bath added every week or so, will find it hard to converse long or happily with the manual laborer who washes his neck and ears occasionally and whose clothes are filled with body odors.

Of course, the working man is the victim of his circumstances and not his choice; but I am talking about facts, not the reasons for them.

Cleanliness is not only next to godliness; it is the essential first item in any list of the factors that make for success. Virtues or no virtues, talents or no talents, we simply refuse to have people around us if they offend our noses.

Again, cleanliness suggests order, forthrightness and self-respect, all factors in achievement. And it is not too much, I believe, to declare that we shall never enjoy real democracy in America until we achieve the universal use of the daily bath: When we are all clean we can all come together comfortably and discuss our universal problems; an outraged sense of smell will not then divert our attention from the subject under discussion.

Being asked recently by an acquaintance to sum up in a sentence and in the order of their value, the gifts of mechanical progress to the race I named the sanitary plumber, the dentist and the vacuum cleaner. To me the trio epitomizes the blessings of modern progress; I could do without anything else and be comfortable.

In conclusion, it seems to me that we who believe in democracy would hasten its coming if we speeded up a national movement to put bathtubs and hot water in every home. We can't dull our sense of smell, but we can let it guide us.

I called him, "O sweet love!

I come, for thou art all to me.

Go forth, and I will follow thee,

Right back to life and love."

I followed through the cavern black;

I saw the blue above.

Some terror turned me to look back:

I heard him wail, "O love!

What hast thou done! What hast thou done!

And then I saw no more the sun,

And lost were life and love.

WHEN FRANCE DECIDED TO INVADE THE RUHR

This series of photographs was taken at the final split between the Allies in Paris, after France had announced her intention of invading Ruhr district—a move opposed by the United States and England.
Despite the break between them there was apparent cordiality between Premier Bonar Law and Premier Raymond Poincaré when Mr.
Law, accompanied by Lord Curzon, British Ambassador to France, left Paris. Marquis Della Torretta, Italian Ambassador to Great Britain, was the Italian delegate. Sir Eyre Crowe, permanent secretary to the British Foreign Office, was another delegate, as was Premier Theunis of Belgium.

HOW PROGRESS COMES

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)Human progress, and more particularly the means whereby world peace may be attained, was the subject of the meeting. One speaker voiced a view which, it is to be feared, is widely entertained if not always so frankly stated."I am a thoroughgoing materialist so far as world peace is concerned," was his declaration. "I do not believe that peace will ever be won through any idealistic program, through sentiment and the exercise of a collective will to peace.""Peace, world peace, can become an actuality only when, through invention and scientific discovery, the material needs of the world are better met and safeguarded than at present.""When, for example, human ingenuity as shown in our mastery of the sea and air for purposes of international warfare is matched by ingenuity enabling us similarly to master insect pests menacing the world's food supply, we may begin to expect world peace. That, as I see it, is the one hopeful way to peace.""Not by sentiment, not by idealistic urging of the blessings of peace, but by removal of the material causes of discord is peace to be gained."But would "removal of the material causes of discord" suffice to bring about peace? Are racial animosities, national ambitions and jealousies, rooted solely in various possession of material resources? Is there not such a thing as a competitive instinct which of itself, unless guided and controlled by sentiment, makes directly for conflict and war?To ask such questions is to indicate their answers.
Undeniably it would contribute to world peace if the inventive mind of man were indeed to turn more conspicuously from destructive to constructive activities. Yet what can effect that turning other than a change in the attitude of man to man? And can such a change be wrought by anything except an insistent preaching of idealistic doctrine?It cannot be too strongly emphasized that but for such doctrine and its influence over human behavior the world could not boast even the degree of progress it now manifests.The nations still all too ready to make war against one another would not even be in existence but for the power of ideals. The earth would be peopled as it once was by primitives and pre-primitives, uncouth, savage creatures, but a shade above the brute world with which they contended.What was the essential difference marking them off from that brute world? Certainly it was not a material superiority. The thing that counted, that enabled them to evolve through clans and tribes into nations, was their capacity for ideas and for the acceptance of ideals.And always, it must be insisted, the continuance of human progress will depend on a growing idealism.
Once the supreme importance of the ideal is generally denied or repudiated, that day mankind will begin to revert to the darkness and the chaos of the long ago, when life for one and all was hardly worth the living.Nobody would willingly see such a reversion. Then let us have done, the sooner the better, with a belittling of idealism and idealists. Such belittling is dangerous business.

TWENTY MILLIONS

ADVANCE IN COTTON
Plans for Co-operation of the Planters Are Progressing

By DON H. HINGA
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—Far reaching plans to put $20,000,000 more into the pockets of cotton farmers of the South through the extension of co-operative marketing associations to all parts of the cotton belt, are being worked out, according to officials of the local co-operative association.

Definite assurance that at least three million bales of cotton will be handled under the co-operative marketing plan during the year 1923 has been given, following the successful termination of membership campaigns in Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

With the resultant higher price for the staple that has been brought about by the new marketing system, it is estimated that between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 will be added to the returns of the cotton farmer.

Under plans of the organization every state that raises cotton will have branches of the co-operative marketing association in operation in time to care for the 1923 crop.

Since the inauguration of the combined selling plan, the association has increased its marketing power remarkably. More than one million bales of cotton were sold in 1922 in Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, and other states where marketing agencies have been maintained.

The influence these organizations have had upon the price of cotton has been marked. Under the auspices of the association, farmers have been allowed to market their staple gradually, in order to keep it retail with the absorption. The effect of this graduated selling system was to bring the price of cotton from 20 cents in August to more than 28 cents during the past few weeks.

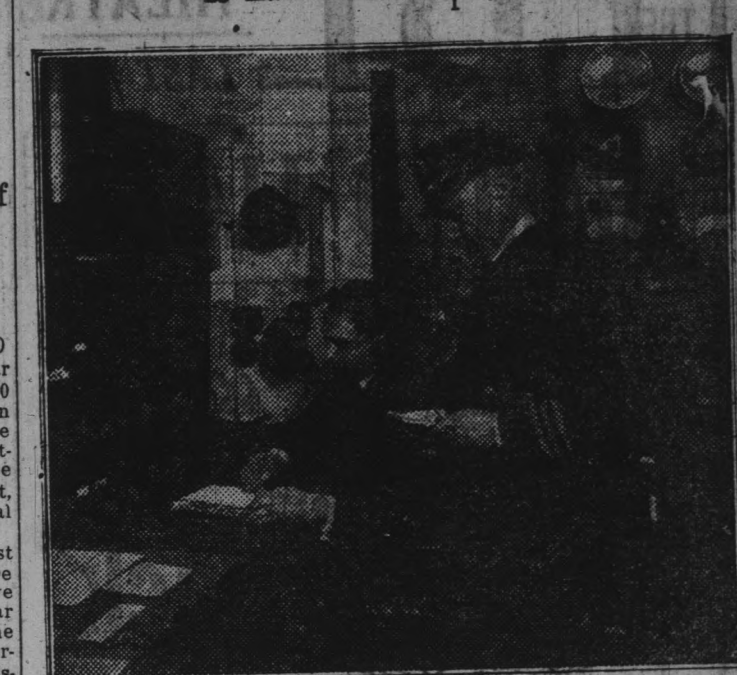

This remarkable rise in price has been effected without selling all of the cotton placed in the hands of the organization. With the price standing at $40 a bale higher than last year, there is still a large amount of cotton on hand.

With the backing of the majority of the banking interests of the south, who have realized what a factor the plan is in bringing about national economic stability, it is planned to more than double the number of agencies during the year 1923.

Pulling Aching Tooth By Wireless

Is Latest Accomplishment of Radio

Dr. Wood in the Wireless Room.

New York. The latest accomplishment of wireless work, one that approximates miracle-work, is the pulling of a tooth across 500 miles of heaving seas. Dr. A. E. Wood, surgeon of the steamship "America" of the United States Lines, is credited with performing the feat that will go down through the years as radio history. The story of the tooth-pulling by wireless became known upon the recent arrival in port of the "America."

It was late in the night and the "America," in mid-ocean, was rhythmically throbbing her way to the port of New York, when Dr. Wood, who had long since retired to his cabin, was aroused by a pounding on the door. The surgeon arose to be greeted by Wireless Operator Black with a radiogram, one of the strangest Dr. Wood in his many years at sea had ever received.

The message was from the captain of a small freight vessel and stated that he had been suffering for five days with a toothache and that he desired aid in having the offending molar effectively yanked. Although a surgeon and not a dentist, Dr. Wood decided that it was an emergency in which he must not be found wanting.

He would have to live up to the best traditions of the sea which require the giving of prompt assistance whenever it be called for.

The message was shot through the void to the "America." Your generous assistance warmly appreciated. "God bless you."

And, so having participated in the making of wireless history, Dr. Wood returned to his cabin to complete his interrupted sleep. Since the perfection of wireless, ship surgeons are being called upon more and more to give aid to small vessels that carry no doctor. Pulling a tooth by wireless, however, is a feat that had never before been attempted.

PROPOSE STATE OWNED BANK IN NEB.
LINCOLN, Nebraska, Feb. 1.—One million dollars for the establishment of a state-owned bank is proposed as an appropriation from the state treasury in a bill introduced in the Nebraska legislature by Axel, of Lincoln county, and Rasch of Madison.

In this bank, according to the terms of the measure, all counties, cities, school districts and other governmental subdivisions, as well as the state itself, would be required to deposit their funds. On time deposits for periods of six months or more 2 per cent interest would be paid. The money is to be loaned out at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent. Single loans could be made up to the amount of $50,000.

The state-owned bank would be empowered to do a general banking business and to establish a branch in every county after two years. It would be managed by a board of three directors, chosen by the governor, secretary of state and treasurer. No one interested in a private bank would be allowed to serve as director.

CHICAGO FIGHTS TO CONTROL THE STATE
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 1.—Chicago and downstate Illinois are about to renew their old fight over reapportionment of the state into congressional and senatorial districts, from which congressmen and members of the legislature are elected.

Under the constitution the legislature is supposed to reapportion the state after each federal census. Because of Chicago's rapidly increasing population, the downstate members of the legislature killed the reapportionment bill in 1910 and 1920 through fear that a reapportionment would give Chicago and Cook county control of the general assembly.

Chicago members, however, insist their districts are becoming too unwieldy and that only a reapportionment will relieve the situation.

Chicago and Cook county now have 19 of the 51 senatorial districts in the state and it is unlikely that enough of the downstate senators can be won over to pass a reapportionment bill that would practically cede control of the legislature to the metropolis.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH HONORS FIFTH WEDNESDAY

Is Occasion for Bountiful Supper, Prayer Service and Joy Fest

Nearly 200 members and friends of the Central Christian church attended the fifth Wednesday night supper and social last evening. This is given four times a year, whenever the fifth Wednesday night comes around. After the supper and prayer service quite an interesting program was put on. Just before the program, Rev. Harry H. Peters, field secretary of the Christian churches of Illinois, who, with his wife, is here for an extended visit, gave a short address in which he commended the people of Glendale in staging for an Illinoisan such a home-like reception, snow, hail and sleet; gave unstinted praise to the Southland and the city of Glendale in particular for the aggressive, progressive spirit which does things so marvelously; and closed with an appeal to his hearers to show, by radiating happiness and good cheer all along the journey through life, that they were fitted for the happy life in the realms above promised to all who love the Master and do His will.

After two charming vocal solos by Mrs. Kilpatrick and two highly humorous readings by Mrs. Daniel Mackay, the surprise number was given. Eight men and their wives were sent out of the room, to march back, as couples. The men were seated on the platform in front, while the ladies lined up, below, and sang several verses, to a very catchy air, telling "Why We Love Our Husbands So." Then Mrs. Lay propounded to each man in turn a long series of requirements, such as: Give year, date and day of week of your wedding day; describe your wife's wedding dress; give recipe for your favorite cake; pick out your wife's hat from the pile in front of you; repeat a verse of some Mother Goose rhyme; sing

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE LESSON OF THE MELODRAMA

When the poor blind girl goes all through the show Your heart just aches for her although you know The villain will be captured and no harm Will come to her and she will save the farm And marry the young hero who was true As steel to her when things looked awful blue. And when they come and put the handcuffs on The villain and she tells him to begone You know that when the storm of life is past, Fear not, for virtue triumphs at the last.

And Oh, it comforts you when life is sad To know you're like the poor blind girl who had Such terrible luck and once was almost thrown From Brooklyn bridge where she stood all alone Because she was the heiress to the gold Into the mournful river dark and cold.

With orders not to let her out again And once she's trapped into the cutthroat's den When the young hero comes and says "don't fear!" And cuts all of their throats from ear to ear.

Oh you are happy then because it shows That not a sparrow falls but what He knows, And if they tie her to the railroad rail— So she will be ground up by the fast mail. You know that he is near and when the train Comes close to her he rescues her again. And when the last scene comes and brings success And she comes in in such a lovely dress, You know when you are going home outside You need not fear, the good Lord will provide.

a verse of your favorite song, and so on. The responses evoked much laughter. Prizes for the most loyal husbands were presented to H. E. Cox and O. L. Kilborn, after a careful summing up, by the judges, of the points scored.

A feature of the gathering was the specially reserved table at which were seated Mrs. Loretta Peters of 315 North Pacific avenue and 18 of her relatives, sons, daughters, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, grandchildren, nieces and nephews, all but the smaller children members of the Christian church, two in Illinois and the remainder in Glendale. Twenty-two were planned for but three of the children were unavoidably absent.

VERDUGO HILLS ARE MANTLED WITH SNOW

Look Quite Venerable in Their White Tops and Silver Clouds

Yesterday and today snow was visible on the Verdugo mountains north of Glendale, nearly halfway down their sides. Only once before in 12 years has the snow line been as low on these mountains. There was a genuine snowstorm in Glendale yesterday afternoon and some of "the beautiful" could be seen in sheltered spots last evening. On December 30, 1915, snow fell all over Glendale to the depth of two inches and the streets resounded, for the first time in her history, it is said, with the happy shouts of children engaged in snowballing. Snow men and snow forts were made and some of them lasted two or three days. For a week little patches of snow could be seen in places where the sun never reached.

There is snow to a considerable depth now on the summits of the Sierra Madres and Tujaunga reported about 3 inches yesterday.

PROTECT BEAUTY OF TIAGA ROAD

The scenic beauty of the Tiaga road, in the Stanislaus National forest, which leads into Yosemite National park, will be preserved by the United States Forest Service through an agreement just entered into between the Secretary of Agriculture and the California Peach and Fig Growers' association. Under the terms of this agreement the privately-owned lands of the association located along the highway will be turned over to the government in exchange for National forest stumps. This action is in accordance with the announced policy of the Forest Service to preserve the natural beauty of the landscape along main mountain highways within the National forests.
